

System Design

Draft 1

This system design document discusses the general design of the overall design of my OS, it will not include the designs for each component as these will be produced near to the time of implementation, See my 'Project approach' document for details.

The system will have a number of execution levels, processes and sub-systems that work together to provide the target system, below is a description of how they fit together.

